DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 42 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 42 is an improper Markush claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in–

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

Claims 40-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Baker et al. '082. Baker et al. disclose a kit for treating varicose veins comprising a catheter sized for insertion into a vein (col. 2 lines 44-49), a medical tumescent fluid and a fluid delivery vessel (col. 3 lines 44-50).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 45 and 48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Farley et al. '719. Farley et al. disclose an apparatus for applying energy comprising a catheter (10), a plurality of expandable leads (24) and a temperature sensor (26) located on a lead. Farley et al. teach all of the limitations of the claim except a plurality of temperature sensors. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide multiple temperature sensors, since it has been held that a mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device only involves routine skill in the art.

Claims 46, 47, 49 and 50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Farley et al. '719 further in view of Baker '223. Farley et al. teach all of the limitations of the claims except a means for averaging the temperature signals. Baker '223 discloses an electrosurgical device that includes a temperature sensing mechanism. Baker teaches that it is old and well known in the art to provide a means for averaging temperature signals received from the temperature sensing mechanism (col. 10 lines 14-27) as a means of controlling the power output by the device. To provide Farley et al. with a temperature averaging means would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a means of controlling the power output.
